

Kathleen Fox

www.KathleenFoxArt.com

I've always loved to create things; crafts, gardens, baked-goods, hand-made cards and fun cartoons. I get a kick out of sketching and painting simple images and bringing them to life to make people smile. I also enjoy writing and authored two children's books.

I live in coastal South Carolina, minutes from downtown Charleston—a city with a strong appreciation for the arts. I spent most of my childhood in California, and that easy-going, carefree lifestyle shows itself in my work.

A professor once said my artwork “had a charming child-like quality”—I love that! Everyone should partake in little playfulness- especially in art.

